

Abstract

This paper explores past leadership styles, experiences, decisions and dominant logic influences on the current leader's traits behavior and strategic decisions regarding organization structure, strategy and knowledge management practices. In particular, the paper integrates components of dominant logic theory, dynamic capabilities theory, path dependency theory with transformation and other leadership styles theory. Creating a connection among them.